Ky Stand
Arouses
Buddhists

By ANDREW BOROWIEC
SAIGON (AP)—Fresh Buddhist agitation was reported today in units of the Vietnamese army as Premier Nguyen Cao Ky repeated his prediction that he and his military government will remain in power at least another year.

Informed sources said Buddhist chaplains were stirring up troops against the government in the 1st and 2nd Corps areas. Both are north of Saigon, toward the frontier with Communist North Viet Nam.

These sources said also that, for the second time this spring, more American servicemen than Vietnamese were killed and injured in action last week. The first such switch in the casualty ratio came during a week of political crisis in April that diverted battalions of Vietnamese troops from field duty.

The sources said chaplains were urging soldiers to press for a return to civilian rule demanded by Buddhist leadership.

Most of Viet Nam's 15 million people are Buddhists, but only a small part of them are politically organized.

Integrationist
Named To Head
Chicago Schools

CHICAGO (AP)—A man nearly fired for integrating New Orleans schools has been named to head the sprawling public school system in Chicago, which civil rights group says is one of the least-integrated.

He is James F. Redmond, 50, superintendent of schools in Syosset, a New York City suburb on Long Island. Frank M. Whiston, president of the Chicago Board of Education, told newsmen Tuesday that Redmond will replace Schools Supt. Benjamin C. Willis, who has promised to retire in December when he turns 65.

Willis has been a storm center for years. Integrationists accuse him of doing nothing about alleged de facto segregation and charge that such segregation can be found all around the city. His supporters praise his administrative abilities.

But Redmond—who served as assistant to Chicago Schools Supt. Herold C. Hunt from 1947 to 1953—has a reputation for integration.

He took over the New Orleans school system in 1953 and found himself in the center of an integration crisis. The school board had decided to honor a federal court order that the first grades of New Orleans schools be integrated, but the state legislature made repeated attempts to fire Redmond when he tried to carry out the board's mandate.

Fallout
From Bomb
Very High

By EUGENE LEVIN
TOKYO (AP)—Japanese scientists reported today that radio-active fallout from Red China's latest atomic blast was as much as 33 times stronger than that from Peking's previous two tests.

The findings bore out reports from Washington that preliminary data indicated China's third nuclear blast was its largest so far.

China's first two tests in October 1964 and May 1965 were equivalent to about 20,000 tons of TNT—the size of the first U.S. atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

The highest readings from the third test came from Niigata University in Niigata, on the Japanese seacoast opposite the Chinese mainland.

Prof. Takao Kosaka estimated the radioactivity in particles of dust was a little more than 33 times as intense as that in China's second nuclear test.

He reported dust particles contained a maximum of 1.5 million tiny units of radioactivity, compared with a maximum of 45,000 in China's second test.

Kosaka said such amount of radioactivity might be harmful to people and might seriously contaminate vegetables.

As the world's only victims of nuclear attack, the Japanese are extremely concerned by nuclear tests, especially those of their Asian neighbor. Peking has refused to sign the international treaty banning nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

Powell Gives Views On Car
Investigations

By LARRY KRAMP
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Secretary of State Paul Powell, who wants more automobile investigations, opposes putting them under civil service and the state police.

Powell disclosed in an interview, however, that his mind can be changed about giving state troopers control of automobile investigations.

If state police Supt. William Morris, Joe Wheeler and Cal Gordon tell me it would better the program, I'd not find fault with it," Powell said.

Joe C. Wheeler is a former FBI agent whom Powell put in charge of enforcement and investigation, after Frank (Porky) Porcario, a driver license field investigator, brought criticism down on Powell's office.

Porcario resigned under fire after he led a driver license raid on a tavern near the University of Illinois campus in Champaign.

Calvin Gordon, who has been chief investigator of the automobile division under four secretaries of state, says his 140 men are worth their weight in gold in preventing revenue loss, collecting money due and serving automobile sellers and users.

"It's unfair to these men to think that they are of the type of Porcario," Powell said.

"Because the public is not acquainted with what an auto investigator really is, they talk about putting them under the state police."

"To take state troopers off highway duty to do what investigators are doing is to make driving more dangerous than it is now."

It is Gordon's uniformed men who normally make driver license investigations, usually at check points on highways. They also are charged with picking up from drivers those licenses suspended and revoked. They pick up an average of about 555 daily.

Mao Has Many Deaths,
New Lives—On Paper

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP correspondent John Roderick spent a total of six months during 1945-47 in Yenan while it was the Chinese Communists' capital. There he met Mao Tze-tung on many occasions.

An AP News Analysis
By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP)—The message said "Mao Tze-tung reported dead. Please check."

Now 72 years old, the chairman of the Chinese Communist party has perhaps had more demises and resurrections—on paper—than any other world figure.

Mao has emerged again after a six-month absence from public view during which all the old rumors and speculation were aired. Two photographs of him with Albanian Premier Mehmet Shehu somewhere in China show him in obvious good humor, looking healthier than ever, somewhat less gaunt than he seemed in photographs last year.

Despite this, U.S. officials in Washington continue to believe Mao's health is bad and power is slipping from his hands. They may have some intelligence not available elsewhere. But there was nothing to be seen in Tokyo to support this, unless it is the actuarial tables on likelihood of illness. They are high for 72 year olds.

The view here, based on an intensive study of Chinese publications and an analysis of the reports of diplomats and travelers from the mainland, is that Mao has not exercised day-to-day control of the government or party since 1959.

In that year, he stepped down as chairman, or president, of the Chinese People's Republic for the avowed purpose of devoting more time to the large aspects of Chinese Communist policy and problems.

He turned over the protocol and social functions inherent in the presidency to his heir apparent, Liu Shao-chi. The working of the government already had been securely placed in the hands of Premier Chou En-lai and a veteran administration.

165 Pulitzer
Honor 50th Date

NEW YORK (AP)—A distinguished and lively assembly, one which may not come again for some years, brought together 165 Pulitzer Prize winners Tuesday night celebrating the 50th anniversary of the awards.

Edward W. Barrett, dean of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, which presents the awards, told the dinner audience the occasion was a "special, one-time family affair."

Next year, Barrett said, the prizes would be awarded by the old procedure—announcing them the first Monday in May and mailing of checks.

It was the first time since World War II that the year's winners received their awards in a public presentation. Of prizes awarded to nearly 500 persons, about 300 still are living. All were invited to the dinner.

Poet Archibald MacLeish, a three-time winner, told his audience the prizes "have warmed the world in which the art of letters must be practiced."

This year's winners included newsmen Peter Arnett of The Associated Press and photographer Kyoichi Sawada of United Press International, both honored for their work in Viet Nam. Arnett said he hadn't expected to win the prize because of his New Zealand nationality. He expressed delight at being present with "the intellectual elite of America here tonight."

On hand to welcome the guests was Joseph Pulitzer Jr., grandson of the founder of the awards.

James Reston, associate editor of the New York Times and a two-time Pulitzer Prize winner, said journalism must find a way to merge its "publish and be damned tradition" with its "new sense of intelligence, duty and responsibility."

Reporters, while smarter than ever, Reston said, "don't knock down as many doors," adding: "We are going to have to use blunt instruments and have some tough characters around."

Convicts 4 For Stolen Money
Order Transport

CHICAGO (AP)—A U.S. District Court jury has convicted four reputed crime syndicate figures and a lawyer of conspiracy to transport stolen money orders across state lines.

Convicted Tuesday were Ernest (Rocky) Infelice, 45, of suburban Melrose Park; James (Cowboy) Mirro, 51, of suburban Cicero; Frank Santucci, 40, of suburban Calumet City; Americo De Pietto, 50, of Chicago; and lawyer Robert J. McDonnell, 39, of suburban River Forest.

The government's chief witness, Frederick P. Ackerman, 42, of Chicago, a disbarred lawyer, testified he was engaged by Infelice and Santucci to get rid of 150 money orders stolen from a suburban Melrose Park supermarket in May 1961. He said he was to get one-third of the take.

Ackerman said he was told that Santucci stole the money orders.

The scheme backfired, Ackerman said, when another man, Charles H. Lent of Independence, Mo., was arrested after cashing four of the money orders in Springfield, Mo.

Says New Crisis
Could Bring Call
For Reservists

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today if a new emergency flares while war rages in South Viet Nam, the United States may have to summon military Reservists to active duty.

But McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he does not expect any Reserve callup this year.

The secretary testified at a televised renewal of the committee hearings on President Johnson's foreign aid bill, but the talk swiftly turned to the war in Viet Nam.

"We are prepared, militarily, to meet our political commitments," McNamara told Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the committee chairman.

Fulbright opened the new round in the inquiry by asking McNamara for a report on the adequacy of U.S. military manpower.

McNamara pointed out that the United States has posted combat troops in South Viet Nam without summoning Reserve or National Guard forces.

"We've done this to preserve those forces for possible use in emergency situations," McNamara said.

But he said if a new emergency "of any size" erupts elsewhere, the Pentagon will have to consider calling Reservists to duty.

"I do not anticipate it will be necessary to call our Reserve forces during the remainder of this year," McNamara said.

The session with McNamara came on the heels of a suggestion from Sen. Bourke B. Hickel, D-Iowa, that "emotional public outbursts" against the U.S. stand in South Viet Nam are not going to ease public concern about the Asian war.

"There's still considerable confusion and I think we're all looking for some answers," Hickel said in an interview.

Rockefeller, Sorensen

Familiar Names Seen
In Primary Victories

By SEYMOUR HERSH

Nebraska Lt. Gov. Philip S. Sorensen and West Virginian John D. Rockefeller IV moved their family names back into the political spotlight today after strong victories in Tuesday's primary elections.

Sorensen, 32, brother of former presidential aide Theodore C. Sorensen, won the Democratic nomination for governor in Nebraska by a wide margin. His Republican opponent in November will be political newcomer Norbert T. Tiemann, a small-town banker. Three other candidates finished far behind.

Tiemann, little known outside banking circles until six months ago, overwhelmed former three-term Republican Gov. Val Peterson.

Rockefeller, nephew of Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and son of John D. Rockefeller III, chairman of the Rockefeller Foundation, led a 56-man Kanawha County (Charleston) ticket in winning a Democratic nomination for the West Virginia House of Delegates.

The 26-year-old bachelor, who has been an antipoverty program social worker for the past 19 months near Charleston, changed his party registration to Democrat earlier this year.

The Rockefeller-Sorensen elections topped primaries that also included a spate of congressional faces and two battles for senatorial nominations.

In one of these battles, outgoing Democratic Gov. Frank Morrison of Nebraska won an easy primary victory over Raymond Arndt of Columbus and will challenge GOP Sen. Carl T. Curtis in the fall. Curtis was unopposed in the primary.

In West Virginia, former Republican Francis J. Love, who served one House term in the 1940s, defeated retired executive Harold G. Cutright for the chance to run in November against Sen. Jennings Randolph, who was unopposed in the Democratic primary. Cutright lost as a Democratic candidate in the 1964 gubernatorial primary and turned Republican.

Mayoral elections also were held Tuesday in Trenton and Newark, N.J. In Trenton, Mayor Arthur J. Holland was defeated in a close election. It was his first bid for re-election since moving into a racially mixed neighborhood. In Newark, Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio was forced into a June 14 runoff against former Mayor Leo P. Carlin.

Holland lost by 2,300 votes to City Councilman Carmen J. Arment in a race some observers said was tinged with racial overtones. Arment ran well in Negro areas, where Holland scored big majorities in 1962 when he was elected to a second term.

There were no surprises in the congressional primaries in Nebraska and West Virginia.

'Blackboard-By-Wire'
Revolutionizing Study

By ANDREW JAFFE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—A professor draws a circle on a tablet in his New York office. The circle appears simultaneously on television screens in classrooms around the country.

"The circumference equals the diameter times pi," drones the professor's television voice. And on the screen appears the formula: "D times 3.1416 equals C."

The technique, dubbed "blackboard-by-wire," is one of many that is revolutionizing modern teaching. It can connect the poorest schoolhouse with brilliant scholars many miles distant.

The process was demonstrated Tuesday for technicians and educators by its developer, the General Telephone and Electronics Corp.

A company official seated on a hotel stage wrote an equation on his tablet. It was transmitted by telephone line to Erie, Pa., and then back again. In an instant, the equation appeared on several 23-inch television monitors.

Speaks At Princeton
Ceremony

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—President Johnson said today "Our great power is tempered by great restraint" in Southeast Asia and elsewhere.

"What nation has announced such limited objectives or such willingness to remove its military presence once those objectives are achieved," Johnson asked in a speech prepared for delivery at Princeton University.

"What nation has spent the lives of its sons and vast sums of its fortune to provide the people of a small striving nation the chance to elect a course we might not ourselves choose?" Johnson came to Princeton to speak at dedication ceremonies at a new hall at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

His speech put heavy emphasis on the role of scholars in government.

Johnson said he sees the nation as conscious of lessons recently learned:

"That security and aggression, as well as peace and war, must be the concerns of her foreign policy;

"That a great power influences the world just as surely when it withdraws its strength as when it exercises it;

"That aggression must be deterred where possible and met early when undertaken;

"That the application of military force when it becomes necessary, must be for limited purposes and tightly controlled.

"Surely it is not a paranoid vision of America's place in the world to recognize that freedom is still indivisible—still has adversaries whose challenges must be answered."

Johnson said the challenge is sternest in Southeast Asia.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — A rising

stream of spending by the elderly is giving the economy a boost, thanks to Medicare. Merchants and service industries in communities where the over-65 trend is already apparent, even though Medicare itself doesn't start until July 1. And the spending philosophy of many still some distance from the 65 mark is likely to be changed as the urge to save loses one of its most pressing reasons.

Also, corporations with employees nearing or past 65 are taking a second look at their pension plans and health insurance programs. Some of these are being revamped to cover the costs of Medicare and even to provide for the cost of the added protection — $3 a month on a voluntary basis.

When Medicare actually starts some seven weeks from now, the economy may start measuring another form of increased spending, offset of providing for greater consumption of medical supplies and services.

The spending trend is based on both financial psychology and hard cash realities.

Many now living on pensions, whether private or Social Security, or on fixed incomes from their life savings, are being freed from the pressure to go on putting aside part of these small amounts against the dire possibility of a health disaster.

So the fixed incomes, whether pension or otherwise, are being stretched in effectiveness. The fringe benefits of higher living standards, even small luxuries, become a possibility.

Merchants say some of their older customers are telling them that they are already taking this view of the future and so are splurging for the items they want badly but until of late were afraid to buy. The same philosophy is being expressed by some still under 65, since the health risk period is limited financially to the years before 65 instead of also including all the years after that.

But for the economy in general, the spending spurge won't be just a one-way street. Money will be taken from the spending stream to pay for Medicare, part by public funds. And in the long run, it's the taxpayer who pays.

Already Social Security taxes have gone up. This means that both workers and employers are contributing more to the government agency. This is money which the worker won't be spending himself, and money which the employer won't have for conducting or expanding his business.

Taxpayers also are likely, in the months and years ahead, to be called upon to foot larger bills at all levels of government for the building of new hospitals, medical schools, and other facilities will be privately financed, but many will be met in part by public funds. And in the long run, it's the taxpayer who pays.

Net earnings during the past decade chart the up and down nature of the nation's basic industry, steel. Earnings for 1965 topped the previous year and were the highest since the all-time record set in 1957, but still marked a drop in percentage of total sales—5.98 per cent of $18.5 billion. In 1964, the profit ratio was 6.12 per cent and in 1957 7.29 per cent of sales.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer LONDON (AP) — There is another Chaplin on the set of "The Countess from Hong Kong," and his name is Sydney. He bears the name of the late comedian who was subjected to living in the shadow of his brother, the great Charlie Chaplin. But young Sydney, unlike his uncle, has been able to build and retain his own career.

During the final days of "The Countess From Hong Kong," Charlie Chaplin was directing his son and Sophia Loren in a beach scene.

"Keep it warm, charming," the director instructed Miss Loren, who wore a pout and a skimpy sarong.

She was evidencing the strains of a long and difficult film with a dictatorial director. But, trouper that she is, she kept the scene warm and charming.

Afterward the Italian star retired to her dressing room while the elder Chaplin stepped down from the set to greet Jules Stein and his wife. Stein is the board chairman of MCA, which is sponsoring the film.

Sydney Chaplin came over for a chat. Like most of the Chaplins, he has hair gray before his time — 42 years. Unlike his father, he is a strapping fellow, deep voiced and muscular.

"What is it like to work with my father?" he mused. "It's immensely stimulating. He can be tough, but of course, how can you argue with him? He is always right."

Sydney, like his brother Charles Jr., was the son of Lita Grey Chaplin; the two boys have eight half-brothers and half-sisters from the comedian's marriage to Oona O'Neill. Although his parents separated early in his life, Sydney indicated he has always been close to father.

"I've always been able to go to him for advice on matters concerning my career," said Sydney, "and he has always been of great help. But he never urged me to be an actor. He never tells his children what to do. He lets us decide for ourselves."

Tour St. Louis

The Senior class recently enjoyed a field trip to St. Louis. A full day and evening of activities were planned. As they arrived in the city before their tours were scheduled to start, they were able to stop at the River Roads shopping center for lunch and some shopping. They toured the Chevrolet Assembly plant, and Forest Park.

Dinner in the evening was enjoyed at Howard Johnson's. After that they went to Kiel Auditorium where Herb Alpert and the Tijuana Brass Band were playing. The seniors were accompanied by L. E. Laugharn and Mrs. Virginia Mahan. Ralph Long was chauffeur.

All seventh and eighth grades students of both Franklin and Alexander schools took a field trip to Hannibal, Mo. on May 4th. Since all members of the classes had read Tom Sawyer as well as other shorter selections by Mark Twain, they found the sights at Hannibal meaningful and rich in background. The concert given by the Junior High Chorus and directed by Mrs. Robert Darley was well attended and was considered highly successful.

Ky Clash

Ky again told newsmen he thinks it will take a year or more to get an elected civilian government for South Viet Nam. He said he intends to stay in power until then.

The Buddhist hierarchy called off its street agitation against the junta four weeks ago after the government pledged elections for a civilian government in three to five months.

The assumption at that time was that Ky and the rest of the 10-man military junta would retire from the government by fall and concentrate on waging the war against the Communists.

Shepherd said the car, stolen in a bid to free two of the 27 shooting suspects from jail.

Authorities have said Baker is an associate of the East St. Louis men. His Cairo warehouse was damaged by an explosion last July. Baker has said the blast was caused by a bomb.

Vincent Gendron, 31, of East St. Louis and Paul Baykowski, 32, of St. Louis were charged in true bills with murder and attempted murder.

The charges concern the death of David Caughlin, 37, who was shot during a sidewalk scuffle while a friend, Charles Thompson, 50, was wounded.

Thompson operates a night club near the shooting scene. John Anselmo, 38, former operator of a Workman tavern in East St. Louis and an official of a bartenders' union, and James D. Stephens, 28, of Caseyville were charged in true bills with aiding a fugitive.

Need More Hospitals For Medicare Program

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Almost certain need for launching a vast new long-range hospital construction program to take care of outpatients under the Medicare program was forecast Tuesday by a top official of the American Hospital Association.

Dr. Irwin L. Crosby, executive director of the association, made the forecast in declaring that "the greatest pressure" on the nation's voluntary hospital system under the Medicare program beginning July 1 would come from elderly people seeking outpatient services — as distinguished from "in-patient hospitalization."

"OK for Now" At the same time Crosby declared that on the national average existing hospitals — with their expected "natural growth" — will likely be able to take care of Medicare beneficiaries seeking in-patient service without too much strain.

In a report to the 122nd annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association, he said the nation's over-65 age group, constituting 9 per cent of the population, already is using 25 per cent of the total patient days in general hospitals.

Therefore, he asserted, it seems unlikely that there will be a large surge in use of in-patient hospital services by the over-65 age group after July 1.

"If we forecast a 20 per cent increase in utilization of hospital services by this group," he said, "this would involve only a 5 per cent total increase in occupancy — from 75 to 80 per cent," he said.

But the problem of increased demand for "ambulatory out-patient services including emergency, diagnostic and treatment, and rehabilitative services — looms much larger."

Asserting that at present — before the impact of Medicare begins to be felt — hospitals handle 90 million outpatients yearly, Crosby said Medicare will accelerate the rate of use of such outpatient facilities.

Start Now
"Since existing facilities are not sufficient in number to come with the demand, there will at most certainly have to be an immediate start on a long-range construction program to provide new facilities — a program that could rival the Hill-Burton program in terms of construction put in place and total dollar volume," he added.

Crosby, in his oral presentation to the meeting, omitted this last paragraph — along with various others — from his prepared text. But a reporter obtained permission from the association to quote it as part of his report.

Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan bounced jauntily up the ramp of their launch stand and climbed into the tiny cabin of their spacecraft. That was just minutes before the simulated blastoff of an Atlas rocket that is to propel an Agena target satellite into orbit next Tuesday.

The mock Atlas liftoff took place at 10 a.m. (EST). The countdown on Gemini 9's Titan 2 rocket ticked smoothly to a make-believe launching at 11:39 a.m. The rockets are on pads 6,000 feet apart.

These are the precise times planned for next week's double-header launching.

It was the first time in the Gemini program that the rehearsal, called a simultaneous launch demonstration, had been conducted without any trouble.

The astronauts reported they were extremely pleased with the exercise.

Col. Jack Albert, Gemini launch conductor for the Air Force, said the dual countdown went very smoothly.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration scheduled another key Gemini practice session Wednesday. It is a simulated flight during which the astronauts will run through a series of launchings, emergency situations and key elements of the orbital trip.

NASA also plans to launch an Explorer satellite Wednesday to study the earth's upper atmosphere. It is to be sent aloft at noon by a Delta rocket.

Stafford, 35, and Cernan, 32, Tuesday wore the space suits that will protect them in orbit. Cernan's is by far the bulkier — a 21-layer outfit designed to protect him from heat, cold, radiation and micrometeorites as he takes a planned 2-hour, 25-minute space walk.

The walk, during which Cernan will flit about on a 150-foot tether with a rocket-powered backpack, is scheduled for the second day of the three-day mission.

On the first day, the astronauts are to catch and make two linkups with the Agena.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was well ahead late this afternoon even though profit taking sliced gains made on the second day of a technical recovery from a couple of weeks of decline. Trading slackened.

Here was the picture near the close:

Volume for the day was estimated at 7.2 million shares compared with 9.03 million Tuesday.

Blue chips held gains ranging to 1 or 2 points while the glamour issues were several points ahead in some instances. A number of early gainers backed away from their peaks. Some showed small losses.

General Motors held stubbornly to a rise of about 1 1/2 but Chrysler pared its rise to a small fraction and Ford eased below the previous day's close.

IBM was up 10, Mergold-Wyn-Mayer 4, Motorola 5, Zenith 3 and Douglas Aircraft 2.

Aerospace-airline-color television-electronics issues — the same big winners in the early 1966 advance — emerged as the best gainers in the recovery. Plus signs were shown also for drugs, tobacco, chemicals, oils, electrical equipments and farm implements.

Studebaker, halted temporarily in trading, spurted more than 10 points.

Allied Products was up about 6, Fairchild Camera and Delta Airlines 3, Comsat and Chicago North Western 2, Admiral 2, SCM 1 1/2, Magnavox 2 1/2.

Hess Oil looked like a repeater as most active stock but backed away from an early rise and showed a fractional net loss.

Teledyne, Cyprus Mines, KLM Airlines, Anaconda, Eastern Air Lines and United Air Lines (new) were up around 2 or better.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher in heavy trading.

Corporate bonds were mostly unchanged. U.S. Treasury bonds declined.

KIDNAPERS FREE SPANISH PRIEST

ROME (AP) — Black-masked kidnappers freed a Spanish priest-diplomat unharmed today after holding him for 12 days in a vain attempt to get Pope Paul VI to intercede for political prisoners in Spain.

Msgr. Marco Ussia, ecclesiastical counselor of the Spanish Embassy to the Vatican, was released 28 miles north of Rome. He said he had been held in some sort of house, he did not know where, and could not recognize his captors who wore dark glasses and black masks.

Police said they had located the area where they believed an anti-Franco group of Spanish anarchists was holding Msgr. Ussia. The police said the kidnappers apparently turned him loose when they saw they could not slip him through the tightening police cordon.

Raps Johnson's Swinging Parties In Smithsonian

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. H.R. Gross says the Johnson administration's "mink coat set" should cut out its 3 a.m. White House parties and swinging Watusis in the Smithsonian.

"If they want to do this, I suggest they renovate one of the burlesque halls for which Washington is fairly notorious," the Iowa Republican said.

"I don't think with a war going on, and the problems this government has to face, that the President of the United States — his family or the vice president — ought to spend time dancing until 3 in the morning."

Gross first made observations on the House floor Tuesday, then elaborated in an interview.

Referring to the opera ball, a midnight dinner-dance for 1,000 held last Friday in the Smithsonian Institution's Museum of History and Technology, he said:

"I was amazed and shocked that they had a $75 to $100 per ticket dance at the Smithsonian with the Rev. (Bill D.) Moyers doing the Watusi and Frug and one woman sent home to get dressed because she was half naked."

Moyers, White House press secretary who is an ordained Baptist minister, was indeed doing the Watusi, as were a dozen ambassadors, half the Cabinet, a number of congressional leaders and their wives.

Mrs. Rudolph E. Carter, wife of a State Department officer, showed up wearing a transparent white lace dress with only a flesh-colored body stocking underneath. Some of her fellow members of the ball's executive committee sent her home to put on a slip. She did.

"I guess Washington isn't ready for fashion yet," she said afterwards.

This dress was created by a New York designer. Her husband said, "At first, I was shocked by it. But I figured, 'Oh well, it's fashion. Let her wear it.' It's much sexier without the slip."

The ball is an annual fund-raiser, and since part of the money was for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, a Smithsonian satellite, the champagne dance was held in the museum.

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Romney preached the gospel of "state's responsibilities" Tuesday to congressmen studying the auto safety issue.

The Michigan governor, who formerly headed American Motors, coupled his plea for "maximum and meaningful preparation and decision-making participation" by states with a warning against "another massive expansion of destructive federal domination."

Romney urged the House Commerce Committee to bring the states into the vehicle safety picture before federal legislation is passed, to administer whatever safety standards are adopted.

"Congress should give the states the authority and assistance needed to enforce federal safety standards for new vehicles and equipment, rather than to build a separate and overlapping federal enforcement organization," he said.

Romney emphasized that as far back as 1955 he had criticized other auto makers for emphasizing speed and style rather than safety. "I'm not here defending the industry," he said.

Neither was United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther defending the industry in a statement he sent to the committee.

Reuther said the auto makers "have amply demonstrated there is nothing voluntary about their discharge of public responsibility."

Driving A Defective Vehicle May Become Fatal For Motorist

Drivers, day after day familiar with the same vehicle, acquire a state of false security about their machine. Such complacency could prove fatal if their driving machines are not properly examined and repaired.

The Safety Check Lane, sponsored by the Jacksonville Association of Independent Insurance Agents and local police department, will readily identify mechanical defects.

This year the lane will be opened May 16 at 9 a.m. and run through May 21, located on West Morgan street between Kosciusko and Church streets.

Brakes, one of the all-important factors on all motor vehicles, often become faulty without a driver being aware of the situation.

Minor faults, such as grease on the brake linings, a brake-line hose leak, or a worn brake lining will all lead to defective brakes.

Free Check For Safety
Jacksonville's Safety Check Lane, free to the public, is a mechanical check, not visual, such as those provided by other communities for their driving public.

The brake testing machine at the Jacksonville Safety Check Lane, and provided by the local police department, is designed to test the braking effort on each of the four wheels of the vehicle.

If one of the wheels (brakes) lacks proper effort, the machine will also register and indicate which area is at fault.

Then, it will be left up to the driver to have his brake system examined by an authorized mechanic.

Errors Grow On Drivers
While driving the same vehicle for many miles, or several years, a driver often grows accustomed to pumping his brakes, maintaining a tighter grip on the wheel when he attempts to stop, or allowing for a shimmy or shake in the steering mechanism.

If these indicators of possible failures do not eventually lead to a complete breakdown of the vehicle, they may persist for many years with the driver still unaware of the danger.

Local mechanics warn that, especially in older model cars, brake linings often become clogged with fluid that has congealed over the years.

How To Ward Off Accidents
Drivers, familiar with their piece of equipment, are often unaware that one brake lining might not be producing the most braking effort.

However, in times of a severe test of brake power, a minor fault, previously gone unnoticed in daily driving, may not stand the stress of a sudden surge of power.

Such an incident might occur when a driver is required to stop suddenly in time to avoid another vehicle, or pedestrian.

City police urge all motorists in the area to double-check their machines, at this year's Safety Check Lane, and not be lulled into a false sense of security, just because the turn of a key starts the vehicle.

CARS DAMAGED ON MOUND AVENUE

A car driven by Ralph D. Troyer, 2004 Mound Avenue, backed from a drive at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday into the path of Olen A. Tippy of 244 East Dunlap, westbound on Mound Avenue. Troyer told investigators city police that he did not see the approaching car when backing from his driveway. The drivers were not injured and both cars left the scene under their own power.

Writes Of Rare China For Hobbies Magazine

WINCHESTER—Mrs. Orin V. Duncan, a contributor to Hobbies magazine, is author of an article in its May issue, Wavecrest, Kelva, and Nakara Elegancies. Mrs. Duncan spent five years in research for the material. This is the first such article on the topic published by Hobbies.

Mrs. Orin V. Duncan

The managing editor of Spinning Wheel, Mrs. Marcia Ray and Miss Pearl Ann Reeder of Hobbies, both requested use of the article and accompanying pictures. The Winchester woman accepted the offer from Hobbies because of the greater circulation.

The cover of the publication pictures outstanding examples from the author's collection. Last fall Miss Reeder visited Mrs. Duncan at her home in Scott county and remarked on the fine pieces of European china in her collection. The Hobbies editor noted the utility in former attempts to obtain an authoritative article on the China. Mrs. Duncan, to what information she had acquired, sought more from a London publisher to complete her survey.

Mrs. Duncan has collected antiques since her childhood. She has spoken on antiques for various groups for sixteen years also exhibiting pieces from her collection.

YES Program In Eighth Year For Students

In a few weeks schools and colleges will be closing for the academic year and several hundred young people will be looking for summer jobs. For the eighth year the Jacksonville office of the Illinois State Employment Services will participate in the Y.E.S. (Youth Employment Service) program. The Y.E.S. program is designed to assist youth in securing summer employment.

For many young people a summer job is a major experience through which they develop good work habits and self-confidence. The wages earned from a summer job may make the difference between returning to school or not returning. For others, a job will be an opportunity to try out newly acquired skills learned in school, spend the summer in a meaningful activity, and to obtain important work experience.

Employers having job openings which can be filled by students are urged to contact the Illinois State Employment Service, 211 East Morgan, telephone number 245-5148 to place their job openings for summer workers.

RESIDENTS WARNED OF DOOR-TO-DOOR PEDDLERS IN TOWN

As spring and summer approach, Jacksonville city police warned of the ultimate coming of the door-to-door peddler with his cure-all for everything from gout to roaches.

Authorities reminded residents that although many of the solicitors may register with the police department when arriving in town, that in no way means that the local authorities endorse products or methods offered for sale.

Police also explained that many of the salesmen use "threat or force" tactics which tend to intimidate residents into believing that their house is in ultimate danger of collapsing.

"We recommend that residents view carefully contracts offered by these salesmen, and if a doubt exists, contact local police headquarters or the Chamber of Commerce," a spokesman said.

Driving A Defective Vehicle May Become Fatal For Motorist

Drivers, day after day familiar with the same vehicle, acquire a state of false security about their machine. Such complacency could prove fatal if their driving machines are not properly examined and repaired.

The Safety Check Lane, sponsored by the Jacksonville Association of Independent Insurance Agents and local police department, will readily identify mechanical defects.

This year the lane will be opened May 16 at 9 a.m. and run through May 21, located on West Morgan street between Koscusko and Church streets.

Brakes, one of the all-important factors on all motor vehicles, often become faulty without a driver being aware of the situation.

Minor faults, such as grease on the brake linings, a brake-line hose leak, or a worn brake lining will all lead to defective brakes.

Free Check For Safety Jacksonville's Safety Check Lane, free to the public, is a mechanical check, not visual, such as those provided by other communities for their driving public.

A Disturbing Court Case

The two zeroes in "007" signify that this agent has a license to kill in the line of duty. Presumably, such a license is only a fictional contrivance to add glamor to a fictional character and guarantee a high death rate among fictional villains, to the delight of readers and moviegoers.

In real life, secret agents are quite ordinary and unspectacular and anonymous men — to outward appearances, anyway. They have to be to perform their jobs. Occasionally, however, the public does catch glimpses of them.

Whether any secret agents have licenses to kill is something known only to a few men in the governments that employ them. But they do enjoy an immunity from responsibility for their actions that is denied to other citizens.

This was illustrated in Baltimore a few days ago in a slander action brought against a certain Juri Raus by one Erik Heine. The latter had been publicly labeled a Soviet agent by the former.

Five government attorneys argued in federal court that Raus was acting under orders from the Central Intelligence Agency when he made his charge and was therefore immune from suit. They successfully shielded him from answering any questions, except those which they permitted. Asking dismissal of the suit, they argued that a trial, in which the CIA would be required to produce evidence to support the allegation against Heine, would "not be in the interest of the security of the United States."

Chief Judge Thomsen of the District Court postponed further argument on the case to a later date.

When it comes to a choice between overriding the civil rights of one person or revealing the operations of an agency whose purpose is to safeguard the rights of all Americans, few would hesitate long to sacrifice the individual, especially if he is suspected of being a foreign agent.

In such a situation, even a judge may have no alternative but to rely on the word of responsible government officials and hope that the small wrong he permits will serve a larger good.

But the decision is not easy, and it is not a satisfying one. We wonder how far we can go in adopting the methods of totalitarianism in order to fight totalitarianism.

There is always the gnawing fear that a "license to kill" enemy agents could sometimes be turned into a license to silence anyone else who makes himself objectionable to the government.

We are getting into the season when insect life is burgeoning. One of the more noxious forms is that species known as the litterbug. Efforts at control are on the increase, but they will have to be stepped up even more if the litterbug's ravages of the countryside are to be curbed.

"Ravages" is to strong a word? Not a bit of it. The litterbug's dirty work hurts in two ways. He leaves a mess wherever he goes—a mess that offends the eye and is an affront to a people concerned about the beauty of their environment. That's only the half of it. The litterbug also costs our society something like a billion dollars a year for the cleanup job.

The smear on our countryside would in itself be enough to justify tougher laws against littering, and stricter enforcement. The high cost of cleaning up after the messers provides added incentive for action.

Dear Ann Landers: How does a person develop courage? I'm 35 years old and still searching for the answer. What baffles me is that I chicken out on the silliest things.

Aging Chinese Leaders Appear To Fear 'Antiparty' Challenge

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

With Mao Tse-tung's prolonged absence from prominent view, Red China's aging leaders appear to fear that an "antiparty group" may eventually challenge their positions and policies.

Internally, official propaganda severely castigates wrongthinkers as "poisonous weeds" guilty of "anti-Socialist and antiparty revisionist thinking."

Elements in the Red Chinese army are particularly singled out.

Externally, Peking's attacks on the Soviet leaders are becoming shriller. They have just called Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky a liar for suggesting that Red China failed to cooperate in routing Soviet arms to North Viet Nam. All this creates an impression that Peking's leaders are on the defensive after a series of setbacks in foreign affairs.

The evidence suggests existence of an element inside China leaning toward some sort of reconciliation with the Moscow party. The Politburo seems determined to stamp out any such sentiment.

It seems logical that within the armed forces there would be some eagerness for a change. The break with Moscow hurt the armed forces and particularly Red China's air force. Obviously, there is concern in the Politburo about the military. Liberation Army Daily, the army paper, commented recently:

"Under the influence of bourgeois and revisionist ideology, a number of antiparty and antisocialist poisonous weeds have sprung up in military writing."

Possibly there was some sentiment for a less dangerous, more rational approach to the achievement of Red Chinese ambitions, since the paper also

"Chairman Mao has pointed out that the main task in the world revolution and the highest form of revolution is the seizure of political power with armed forces. That means, to solve problems with war."

This sounds highly belligerent, but it could betray uneasiness, fear of a slipping grip on important segments of the population.

Educators Find Schools Sidestep Civil Rights Act

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A number of prominent U.S. educators have dropped a real bombshell into the stormy debate over how to get better schooling for Negroes.

Their still-secret conclusions, which are bound to find their way into major white-and-Negro civil rights channels, amount to a severe indictment of large elements of the public, of government, and of the school system for alleged indifference and hostility to stated policies of educational and racial equality.

The conclusions, made available privately on an anonymous basis, are these:

In both the North and the South, there is an unconcealed official effort to find absolutely minimum ways to satisfy desegregation requirements set forth in the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The widespread intent, say these educators, is to "resist the law of the land."

Even where state and local governments have tried to pursue policies aimed at equal educational opportunity, the funds made available have been so thin that their effect has been to underwrite "tokenism" in the desegregation of schools.

The Negroes' protest against inadequate schooling has had a massive side effect — disclosing general public school deficiencies for both white and Negro children.

The educators argue that only in the better U.S. suburbs are schools wholly adequate. They believe that the average city child, regardless of race, receives a second-rate education. For whites and Negroes in the "inner city"—the slum-ridden core—schooling is described as third rate. Many rural schools fall in the latter category.

The educators believe that a great new infusion of federal money — $5 billion more per year — is needed as a beginning step toward improving educational quality and opportunity.

Under a suggested equalizing formula, they contend this would allow about 9 million youngsters, about a fifth of the U.S. public school total, to be raised to the "reasonably good" level where about $1,000 a year will be spent on each child's schooling. The very best schools are still above this level.

Vastly greater federal fund increases are rated necessary as later steps.

The educators further recommend a far tougher and more explicit insistence on workable desegregation programs as a condition for the receipt of federal funds.

Their belief is that the conditional provisions now set forth in the 1964 civil rights law are not being effectively used.

To wipe out widely prevailing attitudes of disinterest and hostility toward established policies of equal educational opportunity, they want a strong show of vocal, active leadership from the President, the 50 governors, mayors and countless other state and local officials.

They want this effort to include correction of present "twisted and distorted images" of Negro and other minority groups.

Running against a trend which has been elimination of racial identification in many official government tabulations, the educators propose that Congress and the administration adopt a frankly color-conscious approach to the equality problem.

They contend that racial identification, kept confidential in official reports, will enable the authorities to monitor possible discriminatory practices and help bring about equality of opportunity.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixteen or 17 years look like a reasonable time to expect convulsions and, by the leadership, a morbid fear of change within the big Communist world.

It happened in the Soviet Union and is happening now in Red China.

If the spectacle of Americans heckling one another over the Vietnamese war gives an impression of some uncertainty about U.S. foreign policy, the antics of the Red Chinese give a positive picture of confusion and frustration.

Stalin began his infamous purges in 1934, just 17 years after the Bolsheviks took over Czarist Russia. By forced confessions, trials and executions he got rid of those he considered a threat to himself and his policies.

Now, 16 years after seizing mainland China, the Red Chinese leadership is humiliating some of the leading Chinese intellectuals, among other things by publicizing their alleged confession of wrong thinking.

So far there has been no news of executions of intellectuals or former party faithfuls in Red China. But the leadership's public castigation of the intellectuals reveals the discontent with the leadership's iron policies.

Stalin was a black reactionary. He had the genius to drive the Soviet Union into becoming one of the great powers. But he did it at a dreadful cost in lives and comfort. The Chinese leadership under Mao Tse-tung is just as reactionary.

But Stalin had more time than Mao and those close to Mao to silence the discontented, the disenchanted, and the critics of his regime. Stalin was 54 when he began the purges and 73 when he died in 1953, a span of 19 years.

Thus he had plenty of time to make his will prevail. And it did prevail, but only until his death. Then he was repudiated and changes began.

But Mao is already 72 with not much time left.

Communication

An open letter to Mr. James Welch:

This letter I have written mentally many times in the last several years. Too often I feel we all do just that. We think of things we want to say to people who have performed a very fine service for all of us, over and beyond the call to duty, but we don't take the time or make the effort, or we feel it might dent our pseudo-sophistication if we bend a little to thank another person for what he has done.

I am writing this as a grateful parent of a child whose life has been so abundantly enriched by her association with you through your absolute devotion to your job of training these young people musically. This was done with many extra hours of painstaking work, and with a firm discipline which these youngsters of today very much need.

No one attending last Tuesday night's concert came away unmoved by the excellent performance of all groups, and of the Jacksonville High School Band in particular.

They played their hearts out, and it was a very thrilling experience for every person in attendance. No student singing or playing the finale, "Born to Be Free," could have helped but have had a very moving patriotic experience. I feel so very sure that if all our young people had the opportunity or inclination to participate in such activities, their lives would be much richer and happier.

Civic groups in our community could boost you and these young people and do this with great pride. In return Jacksonville would reap immeasurable dividends.

In general, large animals have a slower heart rate than small animals. The human heart normally beats 72 times a minute. Large animals, such as elephants and horses, have a heart beat of between 20 to 40 times per minute. In domestic fowl the rate is between 150 and 180 and in smaller birds it sometimes goes above 200 per minute.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Doctors Say Pregnancy

After 50 Is Very Rare

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At what age is pregnancy no longer possible? This is a question doctors hear more often than any other. Although there is a wide individual variation in this, pregnancy after the age of 50 is extremely rare. This was shown by a Baltimore obstetrician who collected only 50 authentic cases from this and other countries covering the last 115 years.

A woman in England last year walked off with top honors when she delivered a baby at 55. This is probably a world record.

In many cases of alleged childbirth after age 50 it was found that the mother had no definite knowledge of exactly how old she was. In most of the authenticated cases the mother had previously borne children but even in those who had not there were no complications and the babies were normal and healthy.

The obstetrician concluded that age is not as important as the menopause in determining when a woman's childbearing period is over. If she is using contraceptive measures she should, for her own peace of mind, continue to use them for one year after menstruation has ceased.

Q—Is meat tenderizer injurious to the health?

A—A solution of papain, an enzyme derived from papaya, is the tenderizer commonly used to treat meat before cooking which stops the tenderizing effect. No harmful results are associated with the use of this enzyme.

Q—How can one sterilize dishes without boiling them since boiling causes cracks in the glaze?

A—As in the case of pasteurization, immersion of the dishes in water at a temperature of 160 F. (boiling is 212 F.) for one minute will destroy disease germs. An alternative is to immerse the dishes for two minutes in a solution of grade A calcium hypochlorite at room temperature. The solution should be made up fresh each time and should contain about half a level teaspoon to the gallon. The dishes should then be rinsed in clean tap water.

Q—A friend has become blind. The cause was retinal deterioration. What would the symptoms be?

A—There are several types of retinitis or retinal inflammation all of which may lead to blindness. The victim may notice a gradual decrease in the acuteness of his field of vision, a narrowing of his field of vision, a blind spot within his field of vision or distortion of the shape of the things he sees. He may also complain of increased discomfort from looking at bright lights. Common causes include nephritis or Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries and exposure to intense light.

A Nagging Question

By RUTH MILLETT

Why is it—

That when a husband tells his wife what a hard day he has had at the office, he is just talking things over; but when his wife tells him what a hard day she has had at home — she's nagging?

That when a man reminds his wife for the third time that he needs some buttons sewed on his shirts he is just calling her attention to something she has neglected; but when she reminds him for the third time that the lawn needs mowing—she's nagging?

That when a man continually complains about the household bills he is just trying to keep expenses down; but when his wife complains about what he spends on his hobbies — she's nagging?

That when a husband criticizes his wife's driving he is just trying to keep her from having a wreck; but when she keeps telling him to "watch out" or "slow down" when he's at the wheel — she's nagging?

That when a man reminds his wife of some mistake she made in the past to keep her from making the same kind of mistake again he is pointing out a fact; but when she tries that kind of reminder with him—she is nagging?

That when a man keeps after his children to do the things he wants them to do he is trying to teach them to take responsibility; but when his wife keeps after them to do the things she wants them to do — she's nagging?

That when a man finally talks his wife into doing something she was dead set against he says, "I finally convinced her;" but when it's the other way around he says, "She nagged me into it."

Why is that?

Simplicity for Engagement Dinner

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Elegance and simplicity keynote modern parties to honor brides-to-be. Streamline the table, using imagination and taste rather than ornamental clutter.

The menu should be different and sophisticated, but within the culinary skill of the hostess.

That is the highly experienced advice of Stuart Levin, director of New York's elegant Four Seasons restaurant. "Simplicity is the beginning of elegance. Plan your menu and table setting around a theme. In keeping with the bridal motif, I suggest pink and crystal," he says.

"For the home party, I am enthusiastic about the new tri-plex quality paper place mats and fine quality paper napkins. The colors are beautiful. Combine them with your best china and crystal to attain a light hearted, youthful, ultra-modern effect"

Strawberry Sorbet—
Four Seasons
(Serves 4)

1 quart fresh strawberries
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients in an aluminum bowl. Place in a larger receptacle filled with crushed ice and salt. Blend thoroughly with an aluminum or wooden spoon or egg beater, constantly turning bowl as you work.

Note: For a tarter sorbet, substitute additional strawberries, which have been allowed to stand in sugar for approximately two hours, for the water and lemon juice.

In both the North and the South, there is an unconcealed official effort to find absolutely minimum ways to satisfy desegregation requirements set forth in the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The widespread intent, say these educators, is to "resist the law of the land."

Even where state and local governments have tried to pursue policies aimed at equal educational opportunity, the funds made available have been so thin that their effect has been to undermine "tokenism" in the desegregation of schools.

The Negroes' protest against inadequate schooling has had a massive side effect — disclosing general public school deficiencies for both white and Negro children.

The educators argue that only in the better U.S. suburbs are schools wholly adequate. They believe that the average city child, regardless of race, receives a second-rate education.

For whites and Negroes in the "inner city"—the slum-ridden core—schooling is described as third rate. Many rural schools fall in the latter category.

The educators believe that a great new infusion of federal money — $5 billion more per year — is needed as a beginning step toward improving educational quality and opportunity.

Under a suggested equalizing formula, they contend this would allow about 9 million youngsters, about a fifth of the U.S. public school total, to be raised to the "reasonably good" level where about $1,000 a year will be spent on each child's schooling. The very best schools are still above this level.

Vastly greater federal fund increases are rated necessary as later steps.

The educators further recommend a far tougher and more explicit insistence on workable desegregation programs as a condition for the receipt of federal funds.

Their belief is that the conditional provisions now set forth in the 1964 civil rights law are not being effectively used.

To wipe out widely prevailing attitudes of disinterest and hostility toward established policies of equal educational opportunity, they want a strong show of vocal, active leadership from the President, the 50 governors, mayors and countless other state and local officials.

They want this effort to include correction of present "twisted and distorted images" of Negro and other minority groups.

Running against a trend which has been elimination of racial identification in many official government tabulations, the educators propose that Congress and the administration adopt a frankly color-conscious approach to the equality problem.

They contend that racial identification, kept confidential in official reports, will enable the authorities to monitor possible discriminatory practices and help bring about equality of opportunity.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sixteen or 17 years look like a reasonable time to expect convulsions and, by the leadership, a morbid fear of change within the big Communist world.

It happened in the Soviet Union and is happening now in Red China.

If the spectacle of Americans heckling one another over the Vietnamese war gives an impression of some uncertainty about U.S. foreign policy, the antics of the Red Chinese give a positive picture of confusion and frustration.

Stalin began his infamous purges in 1934, just 17 years after the Bolsheviks took over Czarist Russia. By forced confessions, trials and executions he got rid of those he considered a threat to himself and his policies.

Now, 16 years after seizing mainland China, the Red Chinese leadership is humiliating some of the leading Chinese intellectuals, among other things by publicizing their alleged confession of wrongdoing.

So far there has been no news of executions of intellectuals or former party faithfuls in Red China. But the leadership's public castigation of the intellectuals reveals the discontent with the leadership's iron policies.

Stalin was a black reactionary. He had the genius to drive the Soviet Union into becoming one of the great powers. But he did it at a dreadful cost in lives and comfort. The Chinese leadership under Mao Tze-tung is just as reactionary.

But Stalin had more time than Mao and those close to Mao to silence the discontented, the disenchanted, and the critics of his regime. Stalin was 54 when he began the purges and 73 when he died in 1953, a span of 19 years.

Thus he had plenty of time to make his will prevail. And it did prevail, but only until his death. Then he was repudiated and changes began.

But Mao is already 72 with not much time left.

Communication

An open letter to

Mr. James Welch:

This letter I have written mentally many times in the last several years. Too often I feel we all do just that. We think of things we want to say to people who have performed a very fine service for all of us, over and beyond the call to duty, but we don't take the time or make the effort, or we feel it might dent our pseudo-sophistication if we bend a little to thank another person for what he has done.

I am writing this as a grateful parent of a child whose life has been so abundantly enriched by her association with you through your absolute devotion to your job of training these young people musically.

This was done with many extra hours of painstaking work, and with a firm discipline which these youngsters of today very much need.

No one attending last Tuesday night's concert came away unmoved by the excellent performance of all groups, and of the Jacksonville High School Band in particular.

They played their hearts out, and it was a very thrilling experience for every person in attendance. No student singing or playing the finale, "Born to Be Free," could have helped but have had a very moving patriotic experience. I feel so very sure that if all our young people had the opportunity or inclination to participate in such activities, their lives would be much richer and happier.

Civic groups in our community should boost you and these young people and do this with great pride. In return Jacksonville would reap immeasurable dividends.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Doctors Say Pregnancy

After 50 Is Very Rare

By Wayne G. Brandt, M.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

At what age is pregnancy no longer possible? This is a question doctors hear more often than any other. Although there is a wide individual variation in this, pregnancy after the age of 50 is extremely rare.

It was shown by a Baltimore obstetrician who collected only 50 authentic cases from this and other countries covering the last 115 years.

A woman in England last year walked off with top honors when she delivered a baby at 55. This is probably a world record.

In many cases of alleged childbirth after age 50 it was found that the mother had no definite knowledge of exactly how old she was. In most of the authenticated cases the mother had previously borne children but even in those who had not there were no complications and the babies were normal and healthy.

The obstetrician concluded that age is not as important as the menopause in determining when a woman's childbearing period is over. If she is using contraceptive measures she should, for her own peace of mind, continue to use them for one year after menstruation has ceased.

Q—Is meat tenderizer injurious to the health?

A—A solution of papain, an enzyme derived from papaya, is the tenderizer commonly used to treat meat before cooking which stops the tenderizing effect. No harmful results are associated with the use of this enzyme.

Q—How can one sterilize dishes without boiling them since boiling causes cracks in the glaze?

A—As in the case of pasteurization, immersion of the dishes in water at a temperature of 160 F. (boiling is 212 F.) for one minute will destroy disease germs. An alternative is to immerse the dishes for two minutes in a solution of grade A calcium hypochlorite at room temperature. The solution should be made up fresh each time and should contain about half a level teaspoon to the gallon. The dishes should then be rinsed in clean tap water.

Q—A friend has become blind. The cause was retinal deterioration. What would the symptoms be?

A—There are several types of retinitis or retinal inflammation all of which may lead to blindness. The victim may notice a gradual decrease in the acuteness of his vision, a narrowing of his field of vision, a blind spot within his field of vision or distortion of the shape of the things he sees. He may also complain of increased discomfort from looking at bright lights. Common causes include nephritis or Bright's disease, hardening of the arteries and exposure to intense light.

We, the Women

A Nagging Question

By RUTH MILLETT

Why is it—

That when a husband tells his wife what a hard day he has had at the office, he is just talking things over; but when his wife tells him what a hard day she has had at home — she's nagging?

That when a man reminds his wife for the third time that he needs some buttons sewed on his shirts he is just calling her attention to something she has neglected; but when she reminds him for the third time that the lawn needs mowing—she's nagging?

That when a man continually complains about the household bills he is just trying to keep expenses down; but when his wife complains about what he spends on his hobbies — she's nagging?

That when a husband criticizes his wife's driving he is just trying to keep her from having a wreck; but when she keeps telling him to "watch out" or "slow down" when he's at the wheel — she's nagging?

That when a man reminds his wife of some mistake she made in the past to keep her from making the same kind of mistake again he is pointing out a fact; but when she tries that kind of reminder with him—she is nagging?

That when a man keeps after his children to do the things he wants them to do he is trying to teach them to take responsibility; but when his wife keeps after them to do the things she wants them to do — she's nagging?

That when a man finally talks his wife into doing something she was dead set against he says, "I finally convinced her," but when it's the other way around he says, "She nagged me into it."

Why is that?

American Menu

Simplicity for Engagement Dinner

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Elegance and simplicity keynote modern parties to honor brides-to-be. Streamline the table, using imagination and taste rather than ornamental clutter.

The menu should be different and sophisticated, but within the culinary skill of the hostess.

That is the highly experienced advice of Stuart Levin, director of New York's elegant Four Seasons restaurant. "Simplicity is the beginning of elegance. Plan your menu and table setting around a theme. In keeping with the bridal motif, I suggest pink and crystal," he says.

"For the home party, I am enthusiastic about the new tripe-quality paper napkins. The colors are beautiful. Combine them with your best china and crystal to attain a light hearted, youthful, ultra-modern effect!"

Strawberry Sorbet—Four Seasons (Serves 4)

1 quart fresh strawberries
1 cup sugar
1 cup water
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients in an aluminum bowl. Place in a larger receptacle filled with crushed ice and salt. Blend thoroughly with an aluminum or wooden spoon or egg beater, constantly turning bowl as you work.

Note: For a tarter sorbet, substitute additional strawberries, which have been allowed to stand in sugar for approximately two hours, for the water and lemon juice.

British Author Reports

How About Education In Communist China?

EDITOR'S NOTE — What is supplied it to The Associated Press. U.S. reporters are barred from China. During a visit there the British author Frank Tuohy got a glimpse of the changes being made, and how they are wrapped up in Communist ideology. Tuohy brought back this article out of China and intelligent will suffer from this does not appear to matter. "Education must first serve the policy of the proletariat; second, be combined with productive labor; third, train cultured laborers with social consciousness." There are the ideas of Chairman Mao Tze-tung. The educational system of China is being transformed. All Chinese children are being taught to "love labor, and be an outstanding pupil of Papa Mao." Nearly all boys and girls join the Pioneers, the Communist boy and girl scout movement, between the ages of 9 and 16.

"I was told the Pioneers, with their red scarves, 'volunteer' in groups at the suggestion of their teachers' to clean the streets, tidy up the public parks and help the old." You see them everywhere these spring days taking part in tree-planting programs, which are changing the face and even the climate of China. On the communes, too, very small children were husking peanuts, sorting out hanks of human hair for wig-making, and herding ducks and geese. Middle schools and universities already set aside days of the week or months of the year for physical labor. But today there is an educational revolution: the changeover to what are called work-study schools. This movement began in 1958, for five years' trial and then five years' further trial. By 1968, China's whole school population will go "work-study" after the age of 14. I tried to visit a work-study school for cooks, but it was not on show. Instead, I saw a work-study school for commercial art and two for light industry. Students were designing Western-style packaging for export goods: at small factories in the school buildings boy and girl students, with their heads together over lathes they themselves had constructed, were turning out machine parts. In nearby classrooms students on a different shift were studying like ordinary school children. According to Chairman Mao's idea, education must serve the policy of the proletariat. The policy of the proletariat is to break down all distinctions between town and country, worker and peasant, and mental and manual labor. Education must also train cultured laborers with social consciousness. These are to be produced by sending students to communes, by transferring university departments to remote country areas, and by conscripting graduates for factory work.

"What will you do after your finals?" I asked one student. "I will go wherever the party sends me." "Their jobs are allotted," a professor explained. "They state their ambitions but they do not choose their jobs."

MRS. BLACKBURN HOSTS MANCHESTER MISSIONARY GROUP

MANCHESTER—The Missionary Society of the Baptist church met last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Earl Blackburn. Mrs. Wayne Hudson and Mrs. Neal Cooper gave the lesson "The Godly Mother."

Mrs. Harvey Wheeler conducted the business meeting and reports were heard from the treasurer, Mrs. Bill Duncan and secretary, Mrs. Earl Blackburn.

Final plans were made for the Mother-Daughter Party to be held May 12 at the church. Five hundred bandages have been assembled for cancer patients and 1000 quilt blocks mailed for mission use. Present were Mrs. Clayton Hudson, Mrs. Oscar Boston, Mrs. Harvey Wheeler, Mrs. Lucille Cooper, Mrs. Bill Duncan, Mrs. Keith Collins, Mrs. Fred Still, Mrs. Neal Cooper, Mrs. Wayne Hudson, Mrs. Edith Hudson, Mrs. Archie Hatcher, Mrs. Norman Moore, Mrs. Bob McKinley, Mrs. Tressa Brown and Mrs. Mary Green.

MRS. ROBSON HOSTS SALEM WSCS UNIT

Mrs. Roy Robson and Mrs. Dale Hamilton were hostesses for a Salem W.S.C.S. meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Robson.

The program, "Dreams and Realities," was presented by Norma Hicks. The meeting included group singing, scripture and prayer. Thirteen members answered roll call with a pledge.

Thank you notes from Mrs. Ella Hamilton and Mrs. Gertrude Bridgeman were read to the group. A memorial service for Mrs. Laura Braner was conducted by Mary Margaret Wax.

Mrs. Ella Hamilton received birthday wishes from members. An officers' training session will be held May 26.

The meeting closed with a spiritual life thought offered by Mrs. Harvey Davies and a prayer. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The next meeting will be hosted by Mrs. Katherine Culp and Bertha Davies and will include a picnic to be served at 12:30 p.m. at the church.

Slightly convertible.

Some people can't ride in a regular convertible without trying to convert it. ("Put the top down, Daddy." "Leave it up, Harry.")

You can't make a compromise. (Try driving a regular convertible with the top halfway up.) But you can buy one: The Volkswagen Sunroof Sedan.

The Sunroof is a cross between a VW Sedan and a VW Convertible. It has a hole in the roof, with a steel cover that cranks open to give you 360 square inches of sky.

Or 359½ square inches of sky. Or ¼ square inch. Or whatever's comfortable.

And if no opening's comfortable, you can have that, too. Just crank the cover closed until it pops against its sealing gasket. This makes our Sunroof as airtight and watertight as our Sedan.

The cover is padded and lined like the rest of the roof, so you can hardly see it.

Some people can hardly see paying an extra $90* for it, either. (Until they take our Sunroof out on the road. And open her up.)

THE AIRLINER

Quarters were cramped, but passengers were quick to follow the mail. The Boeing 408-4 (above) entering service late in 1926 had space for four in a forward cabin beneath the wings while the pilot still braved the elements in the open cockpit. But by 1929 and the introduction of the trimotor 80A (below) he was inside with the passengers, now numbering 12.

It carried no passengers itself, but a Swallow biplane was making airline history when it took off (left) at Pasco, Wash., 40 years ago. Carrying 64 pounds of mail to Elko, Nev., under the first government contract, that flight in April of 1926 inaugurated scheduled commercial air service in the United States. It was the first shaky but successful step in the great leap forward to today's far-flung airline networks.

-and how it grew

A milestone was 1930 as the first stewardess joined flight crews. Cabins became more spacious, featuring such comforts as chair seats and sound-proofing.

The Douglas DC-3 (above) appearing in 1935 changed the economics of commercial aviation. The 21-passenger, 180 m.p.h., workhorse made air travel profitable and increasingly popular. No museum piece, thousands remain in service around the world. Technological developments during World War II were reflected in postwar airliners. The double-deck Stratocruiser (below) and other four-motored giants pioneered continental and trans-oceanic routes before giving way to the great jets of recent years.

much time left for silencing the critics. Until Tuesday, when Peking reported him back in circulation, he had not been seen since November.

If Mao alone was the old one in the Red Chinese leadership, he could expect those close to him would persist in his policies. But those in his leadership group are close to him in age. Time is running out for all of them.

This is not the first purge of the Chinese intellectuals. Mao inflicted a previous one on them in 1957. The fact that he finds it necessary to repeat the dose is testimony to the discontent beneath the top leadership level.

And the leadership has reason to be unsure of itself. China in recent months has suffered one diplomatic defeat after another; in Cuba, Indonesia, Algeria, Ghana.

In short, the leadership is inflexible, too dogmatic even for the Soviet Union in clinging to old ideas and policies. And its relations with the Soviet Union are desperate now.

The Red Chinese leadership in foreign affairs shouts belligerently. But with the exception of its intervention in the Korea war, it has soft-shoed it around any direct adventures outside China's frontiers. There's a good reason.

At this stage in China's development, war with the United States might be catastrophe.

Jim asked his father: "What is the principal difference between no-trump and suit play?" Oswald: "At a trump contract you start by studying the trump suit to see if you can afford to draw trumps to start with. It is a pretty good rule that if a defender opens a trump, declarer should be careful about playing more trumps himself."

Jim: "It also pays to try to figure out why your opponent makes his opening lead. On this hand internationalist Lew Mathe studied the dummy carefully. The simple way to play the hand would be to draw trumps and go after diamonds but slams don't sprout from nothing and Lew decided that West's trump opening indicated that he held plenty of diamonds behind Lew's bid. Also, Lew was well aware of the old saying: 'If both sides play the same suit, one is crazy.' Lew won the trump in dummy, led a diamond to his ace, entered dummy with the ace of spades and played a second diamond from dummy."

Oswald: "This settled East's and West's hash. If East ruffed in he would be ruffing one of South's losing tricks. If East failed to ruff, South would win and play a third diamond. In either case he would be able to ruff a fourth diamond in dummy later."

Jim: "If East had held the four diamonds instead of West, Lew might have gone down on his line of play but Lew was right at the table and obviously knew enough about West's style of play to be certain that his trump lead indicated diamond strength not shortness."

PHILIPPINE LEGEND

According to legend, the Philippine islands were formed when a giant threw a huge mass of rock into the sea. The rock broke into many pieces, each of which formed an island. Only 11 of the more than 7,000 pieces are considered major islands.

Earliest reference to a domesticated reindeer is a Chinese source dated A.D. 499.

Russell Already Feeling Pressure

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
BOSTON — (NEA) — Ninety-seven games of professional basketball had exhausted Bill Russell to a point where only his reflexes controlled his body.

You know he was acting on reflex because Bill Russell allowed other men to put words, then phrases and finally sentences into his mouth.

It is a once-a-year occurrence — if that — because Russell never has been forced to gripe for words or explanations. He is a blunt man and words come easily when you don't care about images or offending people.

But at this particular moment the Boston Celtics had just won the championship of the world and Bill Russell, the man, had reverted to Bill Russell, the machine.

The newspaper and television guys were crammed five, six deep around him in a semi-circle. They asked the same dull questions Russell had heard since mid-October:

"You guys did it for Red, didn't you, Bill?"

A half shake of the head, a few words and the next question:

"This team had heart, didn't it, Bill?"

Another affirmative shake of the head. A few more mumbled words.

"How do you feel?"

Russell wearily looked up through a pair of glazed eyes. Exhaustion enveloped his body.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The oldtimers and rookies are sweating it out together until Wednesday midnight when the major league baseball clubs must cut down to the 25-player limit.

For the first 30 days of the season each club has been permitted to carry 28 players. The 25-man limit will remain in effect until Sept. 1.

Approximately two dozen more players must be sliced off the rosters from the ranks of the fringe veterans and borderline rookies.

The New York Yankees, Kansas City A's, California Angels, Chicago White Sox, Houston Astros, Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs already are down to the limit.

Many clubs used the new 15-day disabled list as a refuge for ailing veterans. Such men as Vern Law of Pittsburgh, Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati, Bob Bruce of Houston, Hoyt Wilhelm of the White Sox, Doug Camillo of the Washington Senators and Ruben Amaro of the New York Yankees are on the disabled list. Until this year a man had to stay on the disabled list for 30 days.

Undated-add player cuts 30 spt. days.

The St. Louis Cardinals will cut two players. Possibles include pitchers Nelson Briles, Dennis Aust, Art Mahaffey and Curt Simmons.

and, as he sat motionless, sweat dripped from his nose and chin into a little puddle on the floor.

The questioners were relentless. They had their man and, like a hunter with a trapped animal, would not let go.

"Do you plan any changes next year?"

"When will you start working on the draft?"

Bill Russell looked up, a vapid stare on his face. He clutched a bouquet of flowers (a gift from a fan), then lowered his head again and stared at the floor. He stared for a long while and finally the crowd understood and drifted to Sam Jones in another corner of the room.

Russell had been left to his flowers and his thoughts.

It is difficult picturing this man as player-coach of the Celtics. The pace in the National Basketball Association is almost inhuman. Some have tougher times adjusting to it than others.

Next season Bill Russell inherits a dynasty that is cracking up and if it collapses he, alone, will be blamed.

"I don't know how the pressure will affect me," Russell said. "Different men have different temperaments. Dolph Schayes and Richie Guerin were player-coaches. They reacted differently. All I know is that I plan to play 47 or 48 minutes a game. I also know the Celtics will be my team."

With Russell the player in the lineup for 47 or 48 minutes, Russell the coach will have an advantage and so will the Celtics.

As Frank Ramsey said, "He's his own best player."

Expect Russell Will Be First Draft In NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Cazzie Russell, Michigan's 6-foot-5, 218-pound All-American, is expected to be the No. 1 pick by the New York Knickerbockers Wednesday in the annual player draft of the National Basketball Association.

New York won the coin flip with the Detroit Pistons for the right to make the first selection after the two teams finished last in the two divisions. Detroit will get second pick and probably will take Dave Bing, the 6-3, All-American from Syracuse, a fine all-around performer who scored 794 points.

Dave Schellhase, another All-American star from Purdue who led the nation's major colleges in scoring with a 32.5-point average, also is due to be taken high in the first round.

The new Chicago Bulls, who will operate as the 10th team in the league in the 1966-67 season, will have to wait until 10th and last in the first round. However, the new entry, coached by John Kerr, will get the third and fourth picks in the second round.

Order of Selection
The order of selection in the draft scheduled for 12 noon EDT will be New York, Detroit, San Francisco, St. Louis, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Los Angeles, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago. In the second round Detroit moves up to No. 1.

After two rounds, president Walter Kennedy will call a short recess. They will continue as long as the supply lasts.

Bill Bradley of Princeton was the first pick last year. He went to the Knicks but passed up pro ball to continue his studies. Bradley, Bill Buntin of Michigan (Detroit) and Gail Goodrich of UCLA (Los Angeles) were the first men taken last year as territorial selections, a category that has been eliminated.

One potential draftee, Henry Finkel, 6-11, 240-pounder from Dayton, already has been selected twice — by Los Angeles and Cincinnati. Because he went back to school, he is in the hopper again.

Clyde Lee of Vanderbilt, a 6-9, 220-pound giant, has said he plans to play in Italy but he probably will be picked by some club.

The Knicks refuse to admit that they will take Russell but they have commented, "We will take the best college player available." Most observers think Russell is the man.

Russell scored 800 points, averaging 30.8, last season, led the Big Ten in scoring, was named most valuable player in the East-West game and most valuable player in the AAU tournament. An ankle injury kept him off the 1964 Olympic team.

Horton's Double Pushes Tigers Past Tribe, 3-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Willie Horton's pinch double scored Bill Freehan with the winning run in the ninth inning as the Detroit Tigers edged the Cleveland Indians 3-2 Tuesday night.

Freehan stroked a one-out single to right and came all the way home as Horton, batting for winning pitcher Mickey Lolich, doubled to right.

Until he left for Horton, Lolich limited Cleveland to three hits. Cleveland, which dropped its third straight after winning 15 of its first 17, had a 2-0 lead before Detroit rallied, tying it with two runs in the sixth.

No Statement Issued After Policy Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson launched a searching review of programs, policies and problems in Viet Nam Tuesday in conferences with his ambassador to Saigon and his top military and diplomatic advisers.

The President told reporters he had had "a very profitable visit" with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Johnson spent 45 minutes along with Lodge. Then he and the ambassador met for another hour-and-a-half with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other members of the National Security Council.

Topics Given
Afterward, Johnson sat in the presidential chair in the Cabinet Room with his experts around the table and listed for news- men topics that were considered.

From Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, what Johnson called a rather full report on the military situation in Viet Nam.

From Lodge, a "rather general report" and an analysis of the economic and political issues as he sees them.

A supplementary review of the military situation by McNamara.

Johnson said he had asked "these wise men, all of whom I rely on, to supply all the information and advice they have."

"I have it now," he said, "and I have passed as much of it on to you as I could."

Not Much Said
What Johnson had passed on was nothing beyond generalities about complex and touchy problems plaguing his administration from the other side of the globe.

Johnson said that he had, himself, discussed and reviewed with Lodge and the Security Council his own views and objectives since he became President on such things as: the Far East and foreign policy; a speech in Baltimore at which he offered unconditional negotiations to bring about peace in Viet Nam; and his Honolulu conference with Vietnamese leaders.

Johnson called Lodge one of our most dedicated public servants and capable ambassadors, lauded Lodge's evaluation of the situation in Viet Nam, and said that "he brought back information you don't always get in written cables."

Lodge flew back from Viet Nam last week to make the rounds of Washington, starting at the White House, and to report on what he has seen and what he foresees regarding the war with the Communist Viet Cong and the internal politics of South Viet Nam.

Johnson, the White House said, asked Lodge to see other key officials of the government and to return to see him at least on more time during a stay expected to run on through the week.

Deputy Press Secretary Robert H. Fleming said he had no knowledge whether Lodge has been invited to testify before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, or what the response would be if he did receive an invitation.

Lodge to Speak
On Capitol Hill, the committee said arrangements have been made to hear Lodge in closed session on Friday. The committee chairman, Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has been a fairly constant critic of U.S. operations and policies in Viet Nam.

The ambassador undoubtedly will be talking individually in days to come with some of those sitting in on the Security Council session. These include Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

In addition to the regular committee members, Johnson asked two of his special assistants, Bill D. Moyers and Walt W. Rostow, to attend the meeting. They operate in the fields of foreign policy and national security, among other areas.

Lodge is making his first visit to Washington since political conditions took an acute turn in South Viet Nam. The latest major twist was a pronouncement by South Viet Nam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky that he expects to hold his office another year, although elections are set for September to start the return to a civilian administration.

Rusk has contended that Ky's remarks, made at an impromptu news conference over the weekend, were misinterpreted.

Kerner Recommends Appointing All State Officials Except Two

RIVERDALE, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner has proposed that the governor be empowered to appoint all state officials who now are elected except the governor and lieutenant governor.

State Rep. Marjorie Peabworth, R-Riverdale, chairman of the Illinois Constitution Study Commission, revealed Tuesday she had received a letter from Kerner containing the proposal.

Kerner's letter, she said, was in reply to requests by her commission to various state officials and organizations for opinions on what parts of the Illinois Constitution should be retained and what parts should be discarded or amended.

Kerner proposed, among other things, amending Article 5, the Executive Article, which specifies what state officials are to be elected.

"Article 5 should be amended," Kerner's letter read, "to provide for the election only of the governor and the lieutenant governor, with the remainder of those presently elected to be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the Senate."

Kerner suggested that the governor appoint the attorney general, secretary of state, state treasurer, state auditor and state superintendent of public instruction.

Kerner's letter continued: "Provision also should be made that in the event of a vacancy in the office of lieutenant governor, the office should be filled for the remainder of the term through an appointment by the governor with the consent of the Senate."

Mrs. Peabworth said her commission will consider Kerner's proposals, and those of others whose opinions have been asked, at a meeting soon after the June 14 primary.

"The history of Illinois is that we prefer to elect a lot of people, partly because of the desire to have a balance of power," Mrs. Peabworth said.

The proposal by Kerner, she said, would make the state government more like the federal government—in which only the president and vice president are elected, with Cabinet members appointed by the president.

Up for Grabs
For Kerner's proposal to be adopted, Mrs. Peabworth said, it would require a constitutional amendment, either "piecemeal"—the legislature is permitted to amend only three articles at a time—or by a constitutional convention.

Mrs. Peabworth declined to state her feelings about Kerner's proposal, saying it would be improper for her, as head of the study committee, to do so.

In Springfield, an aid to Gov. Kerner confirmed that Kerner would prefer that the Illinois system be changed to the federal system in which only the two top officials are elected.

He said the late Adlai E. Stevenson also supported the appointive philosophy while he was governor of Illinois.

Gov. Kerner last week proposed convening a constitutional convention to overhaul most sections of the state Constitution.

House Approves $22 Million For Subsidy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration won a hard-earned victory Tuesday as the House voted curbed funds to keep the rent subsidy program alive for another year.

By roll-call vote of 192 to 188 the House added to an omnibus money bill $2 million for subsidy payments and $20 million in authority for new contracts during the fiscal year starting July 1. President Johnson wanted a total of $38 million.

The House sent the $14,017,299,000 measure to the Senate where another fight is likely over the rent program.

The roll-call vote on final passage of the bill was 296 to 82.

Earlier, Congress completed action on an omnibus emergency bill providing $12.1 million in financing and contract authority for the rent program for the remaining part of the present fiscal year, which ends June 30.

Republicans spearheaded a drive to kill off the rent program. They had some help from Southern Democrats.

The subsidy program, approved last year by Congress but not financed, carries an estimated price tag of $6 billion during its projected 40-year life.

It would provide payments to landlords who build private housing facilities for low-income families. The amount of payments would represent the difference between the going rate and 25 per cent of the tenant's income.

Some of the President's top aides spent the past two days on Capitol Hill and on congressional telephone lines fighting to keep the program alive.

Ownership of projects eligible to receive the supplemental rent payments would be limited to private nonprofit organizations, limited-dividend mortgagors, and cooperative housing corporations.

Voting to finance the program for the coming year were 186 Democrats and 6 Republicans. Against it were 69 Democrats and 119 Republicans.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., offered the amendment to finance the rent program. He told the House it would encourage private builders to get into the housing field, adding that the

Gay Outduels Gee As Clan Wins, 2-1

By BUFORD GREEN
MacMurray's Bob Gay outdueled Illinois College's Tom Gee as the Highlanders notched a 2-1 triumph over IC and returned the Elm City baseball trophy to Mac, in a game played on the Blueboy diamond Tuesday afternoon.

Both hurlers turned in masterful mound performances, with all the runs coming in the first inning. Neither team had a man past second base after the first inning.

The Highlander victory gives Mac a 9-3 edge in the series between the two cross-town rivals, and offsets a 5-3 triumph by IC earlier this season.

Gay fanned eight and walked two, giving up only five singles. Gee, who hurled IC to victory in the first meeting between the two clubs this year, also gave up only five singles, fanned 11 and gave out three free tickets. The actual winning run in the game came in the first when John Nesheim beat a throw to first on an attempted double play, letting Fred Lewis score from third.

Ted Lippert walked and Lewis singled to open the Mac first, with Lippert moving to third on the hit. After Gay ground out with no advancement by the Mac runners, Bob Alexander, who collected three of the five hits for the Clansmen, singled in Lippert, with Lewis moving to third.

Nesheim's grounder was turned into a force out at second, but Nesheim beat the throw to first to allow the run to score.

Blueboys Score
Illinois College came right back with their only tally of the snappy, one-hour, forty-five minute game, played in near-freezing weather. With one out Phil Snowden slashed a single, moving to second on a ground out. Catcher Larry Herrick drilled a single to left, scoring Snowden.

The closest MacMurray came to scoring again was in the fourth when Alexander singled and made it to second on a ground out. The Highlanders had only five base runners after the opening inning.

The losing Blueboys managed to get three runners as far as second. Snowden singled with one away in the third and stole second but died there. Tom Rowland singled with two out in the fifth and stole second before being stranded, and Bill Blessman singled and took second on the only error in the game, by Mac catcher Nesheim. IC also had only five base runners after the first.

MacMurray now holds a 5-11 mark for the season, while IC stands at 2-10.

Forman, Ashland Whip Plains, 6-1

Ashland's Cal Forman scattered three hits in pitching the Panthers to a 6-1 District triumph over Pleasant Plains, in the JHS District Tuesday afternoon. The Panthers will tangle with Jacksonville High today in the title game.

The junior hurler stayed in command all the way in not giving up an earned run. He fanned six and issued two walks. Pitching opponent Steve Bedford whiffed nine and walked only one, but Ashland got to the right hander for 11 hits, including four by catcher Ed Orne and three by J. L. Gardner.

The eventual winners scored all the runs they needed with a pair in the bottom of the first. Gardner and Orne slashed one out singles and scored on the first of four Plains' errors.

Plains got an unearned tally off Forman in the second. Two errors on Huber's grounder and a single by Phillips chased the run home.

Ashland struck for two more in the third, with consecutive singles by Herman Mallicoat, Gardner and Orne and another Plains' muffed doing the damage. The Panthers ended the scoring for the day with two more on three hits in the sixth, by Randy Gutman, Mallicoat and Orne, and another Plains' error.

Koufax, Dodgers Tame Phils, 6-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sandy Koufax tamed Philadelphia on six hits Tuesday night as Los Angeles stole six bases and defeated the Phillies 6-1.

Koufax wasn't at his best in racking up his fourth victory against one defeat. But his fast ball worked when he needed it as he struck out 10, four times to end an inning with men on base.

The Dodgers pounced on Phils starter Chris Short, 3-2, in the first inning, getting three runs on three hits, a walk and a sacrifice fly. The big blow was Ron Fairly's double against the left-field wall that drove in a pair.

Maury Wills stole three bases — second and third in the sixth after he opened with a single — and Lou Johnson had two thefts. Los Angeles 301 101 000-6 9 0

Tornadoes Edge Winchester 4-2 On 3-Run 5th

GRIGGSVILLE — A three-run fifth inning brought Griggsville from a one-run deficit to a 4-2 District triumph over Winchester, here Tuesday afternoon.

Winchester took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the fourth when Glen Mikus tripled and Campbell and Mike Mikus followed with singles. Winchester got all three of its hits off Griggsville hurler Roger Brawdy in the frame.

Griggsville forged into the lead via the hit route in the fifth. Galen Bennett drew a free pass and Brawdy doubled to knot the game. Roger Six reached on a Winchester error before Phil Hannant doubled in two more tallies.

Giants Nip Bucs In 15 Innings 2-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Haller raced home as Len Gabrielson grounded into a force out in the 15th inning, giving the San Francisco Giants their ninth straight victory, a 2-1 decision over Pittsburgh Monday night.

Haller led off the 15th with a single against Bob Purkey and reached second when Bob Bailey's throw to second on Jim Davenport's grounder was too late. Pitcher Frank Linzy then single, leading the bases, and the runners held as Tito Fuentes flied out.

Gabrielson then grounded to shortstop Gene Alley, who flipped to Bill Mazeroski for the force on Linzy, but Haller dashed home with the winning run.

The Giants touched Steve Blass for four hits in the first four innings but couldn't score until the fifth when pitcher Bob Bolin hit a two-out triple to right-center field and scored as Fuentes beat out a high bounce behind second.

Orioles Scratch Out 3-2 Victory In 12 Innings

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles pushed across a run in the 12th inning on two singles, a passed ball and an infield out and edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2 Tuesday night.

Frank Robinson opened the 12th with a bloop single as he virtually threw his bat at a 3-2 pitch. Brooks Robinson followed with a single to left. Winning pitcher Eddie Watt bunted, but Frank Robinson was forced at third.

Then Chicago catcher J. C. Martin let a Bobby Locker pitch get away, the runners advancing. Dave Johnson was purposefully passed, leading the bases, and Juan Pizarro relieved Locker.

Russ Snyder grounded to Don Buford, who bobbed the ball momentarily before flipping to Ron Hansen for the force on Johnson. The throw to first, trying for the double play, was late and Brooks Robinson crossed the plate with the winning run.

Carrollton Takes IVC Track Title

CARROLLTON — Carrollton led by double winners Eric Bryant and Mike Brannan scored nine firsts and had plenty of depth in making a runaway of the annual Illinois Valley Conference track and field meet, held in cold, windy weather here Tuesday evening.

The Hawks, who are now undefeated in nine meets this spring, notched 89 points, 41 better than second-place Winchester. Following in order were Pleasant Hill with 31, North Greene with 26, Greenfield and Southwestern with 24 and Calhoun with 14.

Brannan won the pole vault and the high jump, while Bryant took the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash. Carrollton's freshman 440 yard relay team of Milner, Giberson, Byland and Berry broke the IVC record with a time of :48.4. The old mark of :49.7 was set in 1953 by Jerseyville.

6 Veteran Hurlers On Comeback Trail

NEW YORK (AP) — Whoever said youth must be served might have added "by veteran pitchers."

Six former stars, all seasoned right-handed hurlers, have bounced back from near baseball oblivion and it's been like old times for them in the young major league season.

They are Jack Sanford and Lew Burdette of the California Angels, Roy Face of Pittsburgh, Robin Roberts of Houston, Roger Craig of Philadelphia and Ernie Broglio, Chicago Cubs.

Sanford, 36 years old, won his third game against one loss as an Angels reliever in a 10-7 victory over Washington Monday night. He underwent arm surgery July 17, 1964, but complied only a 5-7 mark for the Angels and San Francisco Giants in 1965.

Sanford won 24 games for the pennant-winning Giants in 1962 and was a 19-game winner for the Philadelphia Phillies in 1957.

The 39-year-old Burdette, signed as a free agent, is 2-0 in relief and has allowed only two runs in 12½ innings. He was 3-5 for the Cubs and Phils last year, a far cry from his performance for the Milwaukee Braves in 1958 and '59 when he won 20 and 21 games, respectively.

Broglio, the youngest of the group at 30, said recently he would retire if he failed to win consistently this season. He had an arm operation two years ago, but failed to come around in '65, winning only one and losing six.

However, Broglio pitched his first complete game in a number of years last Saturday in beating the Mets 3-2, and said afterwards, "I'm on the way back." He was a 21-game winner for St. Louis in 1960 and was credited with 18 victories in 1963.

Cassius Decides Mouth Will Not Win This Fight

LONDON (AP) — Muhammad Ali, better known as world heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, ended a press conference Tuesday, saying, "I need more than my mouth to win this one. I need my fists."

Then Clay wandered off to do a little training for the defense of his world crown against British champion Henry Cooper here May 21.

It's estimated that 40,000 will watch the open-air fight. Clay maintains the biggest live audience he's fought before was 19,000.

Clay faced the cameras and newsmen wearing a hand-stitched garland from the Muslims of Pakistan.

Cooper watched it all from the back of the hall.

Afterward Cooper said: "Well, he's just like me. A man with two arms, two legs and a chin—and it's the chin I'm interested in."

Questions poured in on Clay—some about boxing, some religious and some political.

About Cooper: "He's looking trim and I think this fight is going to be the most colorful in history."

About Cooper again: "That Cooper, he looks taller than he did when he knocked me down three years ago. I figure my best defense from his left hook is to stay out of the way of it."

What happens if you lose? "Never thought about losing. Don't think there's a man on earth who can whop me."

GAS RECORDS
Man's first records of gas came from early Chinese writings. In the ninth century B.C., the Chinese piped gas through bamboo tubes for use in lighting and heating.

"Machine" Coffee Shop Open 24 Hours A Day

Dr. Ward Dunseth, of the PMAH medical staff, takes a break in the hospital's new Coffee Shop, which has been nicknamed the "Machine Shoppe" since it was remodeled and equipped with automatic vending machines. It now is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, for patients and their families and for employees.

Beverages, sandwiches, soups, salads, desserts, and snacks, prepared in the hospital kitchens, are dispensed through the coin-operated machines. A micro-wave oven which heats foods in a matter of seconds also has been installed for patrons' convenience.

Resourceful Sex Juggles Many Roles

Invention Necessity Of Mother

By JOY MIL'ER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — As everyone knows, invention is the necessity of Mother.

Woman — the resourceful sex — has always been able to juggle two or three roles expertly — or, as Lois Benjamin phrases it, "keep the sauce bear-naise spoon and the pabulum spoon going simultaneously while she's typing with her toes."

But now with nine million mothers in the United States bringing home paychecks, Mrs. Benjamin, a young working mother herself, thinks it's about time they got some assistance on a grand scale.

The two major needs this minute for working mothers she says, are government-sponsored day care programs and a revolution in the professional status of household workers so that adequate help at home would be available.

These would be better Mothers Day gifts than all the candy and flowers in the world, she thinks.

Slim, brunette Mrs. Benjamin has had a lifetime of contact with the problems of working mothers. She is the daughter of a famous one — fashion designer Jo Copeland — and she's the mother of Tony, 5, and Roger, 3.

These days she's an expert too, having just written a book "So You Want To Be a Working Mother."

"About those day care centers to take care of children while mother works," she says, "they're the first thing emerging countries set up. Their position is that they need women in the labor force."

"The U.S. position is that women are needed at home — based on ancient and honorable and cockeyed theories about what women want."

"Day care should be regarded as a public utility as much as water or electricity."

Some concentrated effort — either by the government or perhaps some large nationwide employment agency — should be made to upgrade domestic work, she says.

SAILORS WANT TV
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — West Coast sailors may be guaranteed shipboard 21-inch television sets, steam irons and automatic ice cube machines in their new labor contract.

Those items were included in a tentative agreement made public by the AFL-CIO Seafarers Union and the Pacific Maritime Association, an employer group.

CIGARETTE PROBLEM
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban smokers had better stick to cigars.

A Havana radio broadcast monitored here said many of the cigarettes wouldn't burn. The broadcast said cigarette paper imported from Czechoslovakia "lacked sufficient quantities of potassium and sodium for easy combustion."
